Recommended CTE Pathways	Public Services CTE Pathway ☀
Level	Potential ⊟

Based on your results, we think Public Services CTE Pathway is a good fit for you!

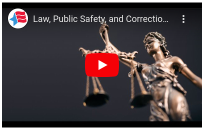
Within this CTE Pathway are three career clusters:

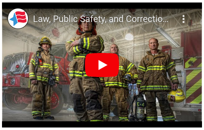
Law, Public Safety and Corrections Careers

The law, public safety, corrections, and security career cluster is all about protecting and serving the public. People working in this sector deal with protecting life and property, enforcing laws, providing legal counsel, sentencing defendants, and rehabilitating offenders.

What makes up this cluster?

- The major employers in public safety are government organizations at the city or county, state, and federal levels.
- First responders such as fire and police departments, share a mission to keep people and property safe, as do the workers who patrol city streets, coastal waters, ski slopes, and swimming beaches.
- Laws guide relationships among people, institutions, and government; workers in the law sector enforce these laws, and sometimes create them.
- Lawyers conduct research, prepare documents, gather testimony, and argue cases before judges or juries. Judges interpret laws and sentence defendants.
- The corrections sector consists of city and county jails, state and federal prisons, community correctional facilities, and juvenile detention centers.





Government and Public Administration Careers

Careers in Government and Public Administration relate to planning and performing government functions at the local, state and federal levels, including governance, national security, foreign service, planning, revenue and taxation, and regulations.

A primary goal of virtually all careers in public service is to help improve the quality of life and livelihood for the citizens represented, while supporting the betterment of the overall community.
What is the role of government and public administration?

The federal government deliberates and passes laws and administers many programs. Federal jobs support a variety of agencies responsible for:

- strengthening the economy
- representing U.S. interests abroad
- national security
- determining how natural resources are used
- taxation
- establishing and enforcing regulations for many industries and products.

State and local government offices support similar activities at their respective levels, that include:

- passing laws and ordinances
- public education
- police and fire departments
- parks
- collecting taxes
- managing budgets
- enforcing laws and ordinances
- protecting the environment

Human Services Careers

The Human Services career cluster relates to meeting human needs through activities such as counseling and mental health services, family and community services, personal care and consumer services.

What is the role of human services?

- To provide food, shelter, income, job help, and counseling to people in need.
- In times of crisis, to offer disaster relief services and crisis support.
- To offer personal care for health, wellness, and beauty.
- To influence public opinion and advocate for social change.
